Tool analysis

This tool analysis document is used for the decision to test the tool as well as for documentation reasons.

Tool description

Name of the tool	ThingLink
Web page URL	ThingLink: Vivi un'esperienza unica con immagini interattive, video e mezzi espressivi a 360°
Type of use	☒Web-based ☐ Download
Type of license	☐ Free use of all functions ☒Free use of basic functions (fee for "PRO" Version") ☒Educational Licence ☐ Pay Version

Tool characteristic

☒Cooperative work possible
☒Creates reusable content
   ☒Means use the link (direct to the content)
   ☐Means download and upload at a different location
☒Created content needs a host to be displayed
☒Content can be displayed independently of the used Operating System
☐ Content can be downloaded for local use

Possible use of the tool

☒Use to create additional multimedia-based (mm-b) content (graphics, videos, animations, …)
☒Use to create interactive content
☐ Use to create complete learning units
☐ Use to create interactive / mm-b assessments, self-evaluation units, or similar applications
☐ Collaborative use (brainstorming, …)
☐ other (please describe)

Initial estimation

1. Easy to use
   O complete agreement   ● partial approval   O little approval   O no consent at all
2. Well-done user interface
   O complete agreement   ● partial approval   O little approval   O no consent at all
3. Easy to learn
   O complete agreement   ● partial approval   O little approval   O no consent at all
4. Useful for future course development
   O complete agreement   ● partial approval   O little approval   O no consent at all

PRO:
-It is possible to start with a free version;
-the paid version for school is cheap (35€/year).

CONTRO:

-No interactions in the quizzes.

TIPS:

-You can follow the initial tutorials to get started;

 -try to see other examples to get inspired;

-useful for flipped learning;

-if you like Thinglink, but you want to incorporate quizzes with answers, Genially is a better option.